++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly cold, dry and bright with occasional wintry showers.

This Evening and Tonight:
A dry night with patchy cloud cover, the west coast seeing the best of any clear spells. Towards the morning hours some showers, potentially wintry, may develop in the southeast. Feeling cold, with a frost forming. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Wednesday:
Early showers will die out in the southeast to leave a generally dry day. There will be some good sunny spells, especially in the west. Feeling cold, with light winds. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Cloud will increase from the north Thursday, bringing patchy rain or snow later. Friday and Saturday look mostly dry with sunny spells. Remaining cold, with overnight frosts and freezing fog.
